Dear Brigadier General Carl Strock I don't think you should breach the dams because some people will not have inexpensive electricity perhaps even you.

You could make a law that you can only catch four Salmon when you go fishing.

Another reason you shouldn't breach the dams is that we would have to use coal and there is only about 500 years of coal left for the U.S.. Coal is not a renewable resource.

I am in fourth grader in Russell Elementary.

Sincerely,
Anthony Williams
