RE: Breaching Lower Snake Dams

To Whom It May Concern:

At the expense of the link in the Columbia/Snake River transportation system, irrigation, flood control and recreation, the National Marine Fisheries Service and Corp of Engineers are considering breaching the lower Snake River dams.

I have not heard of any substantive evidence indicating this would be an effective action to take to "Save the Salmon". This severe action seems to be far too high a price to pay for unknown results. What is known; however, are the devastating results such an action would have on so many families, businesses, and our economy in general. For these reasons, I am opposed to breaching the lower Snake River dams.

Sincerely,
