Enjoy safe Labor Day weekend fun at Lucky Peak sites on the Boise River

BOISE, Idaho – The upcoming Labor Day holiday weekend is a great time to visit U.S. Army Corps of Engineers parks and recreation facilities on the Boise River, operated by the Walla Walla District.

Outdoors enthusiasts can enjoy scenic river views while taking advantage of picnicking, camping, fishing, boating and swimming opportunities at Lucky Peak Dam and Lake recreation sites.

It's also a time to remember safety whenever playing in, on or near the water. Here are a few safety tips Lucky Peak park rangers hope visitors will remember while having fun at the Corps lake and recreation facilities: swim with a buddy, wear properly fitted, U.S. Coast Guard-approved life preservers; diving, jumping, or swinging from structures, cliffs, bridges, etc., is strictly prohibited; and don't consume intoxicants when operating recreational vessels. Boaters must ensure personal floatation devices are on board for each person – children 14 and younger are required to wear PFDs when underway in boats up to 19 feet in length. State boating, hunting and fishing regulations apply to visitors at Corps sites. Hunting on Corps property is allowed in designated areas only during hunting seasons.

Lucky Peak recreation facilities attract over a million visitors annually. To make the experience a safe and happy one for everybody, a few rules apply, because safety is everyone's responsibility. Fires are allowed only in designated fire pits, grills, or fully self-contained unit. Corps park rangers, as well as local law enforcement officials, will be patrolling throughout the holiday weekend to assist visitors.

Recreation areas associated with Lucky Peak Dam and Lake on the Boise River are listed as follows:
